

Position: IN-HOUSE LITIGATION LAWYER

Salary: $85-95k/annum

Start date: March 1, 2012

Overview of position:

Silvercorp Metals Inc. is engaged in the acquisition, exploration, development and mining of high-grade silver-related mineral properties in China and Canada. Silvercorp is the largest primary silver producer in China through the operation of the four silver-lead-zinc mines at the Ying Mining District in the Henan Province of China. We are seeking an in-house litigation lawyer for our Vancouver offices.

The litigation lawyer will be responsible for assisting with all pending and potential litigation matters, including all aspects of discovery, data gathering, and case management. This person may also be involved in resolving disputes that may not give rise to litigation and that can be handled internally. Litigation counsel will interact with outside counsel and litigation consultants, as well as employees in multiple departments in order to provide advice. Some travel may be required. The person hired in this position will report directly to the corporate secretary and will work with two other in-house lawyers.

Requirements:

- LLB or JD degree
- admission to the Bar of British Columbia
- 2 to 4 years experience in corporate litigation at a company or law firm
- exceptional writing and editing skills
- excellent oral communication skills
- collaborative, team-oriented work style, with strong interpersonal skills
- superior negotiation, presentation, and communication skills
- strong conceptual skills combined with demonstrated ability to execute to desired conclusion
- superior analytical ability
- a highly energetic and proactive team player with a strong work ethic. Must be capable of both individual and team contributions
- strong references
- some travel required

Other Qualifications:

- Bachelor's degree in business administration or MBA not required, but favoured.

To apply, please email your resume and cover letter to hr@silvercorp.ca. Only selected candidates will be contacted.
